2025 MARIETTA CITIZEN OF THE YEAR

BILL BRUTON, CITY MANAGER, CITY OF MARIETTA

Bill Bruton, Jr., has dedicated his entire professional life to public service and civic engagement. Serving as City Manager of Marietta since 2000, Marietta has been recognized for its strong financial stewardship, smart development policies, and proactive community engagement under his leadership. He has played a pivotal role in the development of Marietta Square, supported key projects like the Hilton Atlanta/Marietta Hotel & Conference Center, and worked collaboratively with local organizations to ensure the city's public services are accessible, efficient, and community focused.

Bruton is a member of the Georgia City-County Management Association (GCCMA) and the International City/County Management Association (ICMA). He has served on numerous boards and task forces representing Marietta's interests in regional planning, economic development, and municipal operations. His financial acumen and steady leadership have been recognized by peer associations, and his reputation for ethical governance has made him a trusted leader across Georgia.

Bruton has helped lead Marietta to receive multiple distinctions over his tenure, including top ratings in financial transparency, awards for urban planning, and recognition for innovative public-private partnerships. While he often deflects credit, his behind-the-scenes work has earned him widespread respect from elected officials, city staff, civic leaders, and residents. Through decades of steady, principled leadership, he has ensured that Marietta remains not only a well-run city, but also a thriving home for families, businesses, and the arts.

programs, and credentials for in-demand fields, launched FLIGHT — a class-year, student success engagement program for first-year students focused on community, progress, and retention, realized an 81% increase in external research awards, and more than doubled research expenditures. Schwaig also oversaw KSU's move to Conference USA and relaunched HatchBridge, a community-focused business incubator.

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY DEDICATES HOME

Habitat for Humanity of NW Metro Atlanta celebrated the final milestone of its final build of the year as nearly 100 supporters, sponsors, volunteers, and community leaders gathered Thursday to dedicate the completed 2025 Women Build home for future homeowner Makailah and her family in Marietta.

What began with pink hard hats and pink shovels at the October Land Dedication has now come full circle. Over nine weeks, 237 volunteers worked 4,141 hours side-by-side with Makailah and her mom, Lisa, to complete this home. More than 75 percent of the volunteers who built this home were women.

Makailah, a Police Service Representative with the Marietta's Police Department, was joined at the dedication by her mother, Lisa, and her son, a third grader; and sister Matilda. In 2023, she applied for this home through City of Marietta and Habitat's Public Service Housing Program and was selected in 2024.

At the dedication, Makailah said, "As I looked at my 10-year goals, I considered changing my goal to buy a home as something that was unrealistic. I considered changing to a goal to rent, yet, when at I looked at renting, I saw that was unrealistic too."

"There is a great need for families like Makailah and Lisa — since 2019, 76 percent of our homeowners are female-headed households," said Habitat for Humanity of NW Metro Atlanta CEO Kyle Huhtanen. "The last time we opened our application process, we received more than 900 applicants, and we build only 5–10 homes per year. That should tell all of us — there is a need." HARRISON HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR RAISES $2,500 FOR LOCAL FAMILIES

Graham Auldridge, a senior at Harrison High School, has turned his passion for pickleball into meaningful support for families facing food insecurity in Cobb County. What began as a simple idea to bring people together for a friendly community tournament became a successful fundraiser benefiting The Center for Family Resources' (CFR) annual "Thanks for Giving" program.

The Auldridge family has supported "Thanks for Giving" for several years. Graham's father recalls the early days of their involvement: "Our family first got involved with The Center for Family Resources after we saw a post several years ago about Thanks for Giving. At the time, we took our sons shopping for the items to fill a couple of family boxes to show the importance of giving back and the value of doing so."

Graham says that experience stayed with him. As he grew older, he became increasingly aware of the food insecurity affecting many of his classmates and neighbors. Wanting to do more this year, he organized a pickleball tournament with a goal of raising $1,000 for families in need.

Graham exceeded that goal, raising $1,250 through the event. With a matching contribution from his father and his father's employer, his total donation reached $2,500.

The CFR's CEO Melanie Kagan praised Graham's leadership and compassion. "It is truly inspiring to see young people like Graham stepping up to help children and families right here in their own community," says Kagan. "His initiative and the heart behind it reminds us that meaningful impact often begins with one person deciding to make a difference."

LOCAL HISTORY STORIES

Andrew J. Bramlett

In 1943, local resident Private Norman

Roberts became the first African American soldier from Cobb County killed in World War II. Roberts was serving in North Africa when he was killed. Five years later, in 1948, his body returned to Georgia to be laid to rest in the Marietta National Cemetery. The next year, the Cobb County Board of Education approved a new school for Black students in Acworth, which was named after Private Roberts.

In 1953, construction began on the new Roberts School. The structure was designed with five classrooms and an auditorium, with the whole building expected to serve 125-150 students. The school opened before 1956 and served African American elementary-aged students from both Acworth and Kennesaw. At the time, there was no African American high school in Cobb County.

In 1961, two new rooms were added to the Roberts School. When Cobb County schools were integrated, students from the Roberts School began attending Acworth Elementary School. Roberts School closed in 1968 and was used by the county for storage.

Over the next thirty years, Roberts School served a variety of purposes. Owned by the City of Acworth, it was a health center in the early 1970s and was later home to the city streets department. In 2000, former Roberts School student Tim Houston spearheaded a renovation effort to turn the Roberts School into a community center. Since this renovation, the Roberts School building has returned to its place as a focal point of Acworth. More recently, part of the building was renovated to become the Rena Henton Theatre, the new home of the Acworth Theatre Company. A ribbon cutting for this new venue will be held on January 15 at 4:30 PM.

ROBERT JONES HAS RETIRED

An Institution at Goodwill

The Goodwill on South Cobb Drive in Smyrna is about to lose one of its brightest lights: special needs worker and longtime greeter Roger Jones, who is retiring next Friday, his last day after over 28 years with Goodwill and 21 years at the South Cobb store. Roger stands by the door day after day, offering a kind word to every customer, remembering everyone's name, and asking sincere questions like "How are you? How's your family? Is there anything I can help you with?" while following up on details he remembered years later, even once recalling a man's dog well after it had passed. Regular shoppers are hoping you can use your platform to share his story and honor the way his everyday kindness has quietly built community inside a thrift store doorway.

TRAINS, TRAINS, TRAINS! -

The Southern Museum of Civil War & Locomotive History will host the return of its largest annual event, Trains, Trains, Trains!, on Saturday, Jan. 24, and Sunday, Jan. 25, 2025.

The event will feature an extensive display of model train layouts, train-themed activities and historic railcars. Participating groups will travel from states including Kentucky, Alabama and Tennessee to showcase their work.

During the event, the General Emporium, the museum's gift shop, will expand to offer additional train-themed merchandise, including apparel, collectibles, toys and model trains.

"Every year we look forward to welcoming new and returning guests to experience these spectacular model train layouts," said Dr. Richard Banz, executive director of the museum. "Many of the layouts are interactive, and we are excited to host both returning and first-time model train groups representing the most popular gauges and scales in model railroading."

The Board the Caboose Experience will offer visitors the opportunity to tour a historic caboose for a $5 donation to the Kennesaw Museum Foundation. Children 3 years old and younger are admitted free. Proceeds support the museum's mission.

A LOOK AT BROOKWOOD'S READING PROGRAM

BY KIM WIGINGTON, DIRECTOR

Brookwood Christian School reading instruction is based on the Orton-Gillingham method. OG is a research-based framework that was developed specifically for students who have difficulty decoding words.

Dyslexic students do not intuitively grasp sound-letter relationships, Orton-Gillingham is explicit, systematic, and structured. Rules are taught, practiced, and built upon.

Students are taught through multi-sensory methods. They hear sounds, say them aloud, write them, and incorporate movement. This helps the brain form more connections.

Students learn rules, syllable patterns, and word structures. Students stop guessing at words and start applying the principles they have learned. As their decoding improves, so does their confidence.

By meeting students where they are, the reading programs at Brookwood allow dyslexic learners to develop skill, confidence, and a love of learning.

Our shared spaces came alive in new ways. The Noonday Creek Trail continued to grow as a destination for art, recreation, and everyday enjoyment, with new murals, installations like Tiny Doors ATL, and thoughtful enhancements. Our Bikeshare Program also marked 10 years of service and more than 100,000 rides, strengthened by e-bikes, expanded access, and the generous support of our anniversary sponsor, Georgia Power.

Community engagement reached new heights. Free yoga at Aviation Park, sponsored by Kaiser Permanente, saw record participation, and cornerstone events like Ecologie Vintage EcoFest and Caffeine & Octane deepened our reach. New collaborations, such as our sponsorship with KSU Athletics, created fresh opportunities for connection, while partnerships with local businesses grew through educational programs and networking events.

Major projects continue to move forward, including the South Barrett Reliever, Lanier Park, Wayfinding, George Busbee Complete Street and Noonday Creek Pedestrian Bridge, as well as planning efforts through the Livable Centers Initiative to support a more connected future.

We also know that meaningful progress doesn’t happen alone. We are deeply thankful for the strong partnerships across organizations, institutions, businesses, and individuals that make this work possible. Our role is to be a resource—a tool in the community’s toolbox—supporting a shared vision for a thriving, connected, and forward-moving district.

Together, we’re writing the next chapter of our story, built on innovation, collaboration, and the power of working together.

LEARNING ABOUT MOSES

Marlon Longacre, Associate Pastor, Piedmont Church

He chose to be mistreated along with the people of God rather than to enjoy the fleeting pleasures of sin. Hebrews 11:25

Over the Christmas break I rested and got prepared for the year 2026. 2025 was such a momentous year for Piedmont in the community. But being such a competitor, I wanted Piedmont to be even more effective and have an even greater impact in 2026. I have been studying Moses. Moses was so effective, and God used him to accomplish so many things that we are still learning from him today.

Moses settled some basic questions in his life. Now I want to look how he settled this question "What are my choices?"

WE MUST ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY FOR OUR OWN LIFE.

Do not blame somebody else for your life. Do not say, "It is not my fault." Do something about it. Decide to change.

The fact is, I have choices I can make in life and so do you. I have options for making these choices. God has given us the freedom to choose. What I choose today will determine my tomorrow. That is called accepting responsibility. The Bible says that people who accept responsibility for their own lives tend to lead effective lives.

In Hebrews 11 v. 24 we see Moses refusing and in v. 25 we see Moses choosing. There is a principle here. The negative is followed by the positive. God never says, "Do not do this. Do not do that. He says, whenever you take something out of your life, you put something positive in its place. You see the refusing and then you see the choice. Christianity is not a negative religion of a bunch of do nots.

In v. 23 as a baby, God chose Moses. "By faith, Moses' parents hid him for three months after he was born because they saw that he was no ordinary child and they weren't afraid of the king's edict." God chose Moses as a baby. But when Moses grew up, v. 25, it said he had to choose God.

God has chosen you. Have you chosen Him? v. 24. When did Moses make his choice? "When he had grown up." One of the marks of maturity in life is when you accept responsibility for your own decisions. You do not blame other people. Society loves to let us shift responsibility. You cannot blame somebody else for the direction of your life. You cannot live off somebody else's spiritual commitment. You must make your own spiritual commitment.

And Moses, when he grew up, chose. He made an act of responsibility. Your happiness will be determined by your character in life. Your character is determined by the choices you make. Be yourself. Accept responsibility for your own condition.

Is 2026 the year that you accept responsibility and take ownership of your faith journey? The strength of your life is in your commitments. I hope that you will be in attendance on Sundays. Ike and Daniel will be sharing with you some exciting news concerning Wednesday nights at Piedmont.

LOVE DOES SOUPER BOWL JANUARY

Soups and detergents are this month's Love Does project. January is always the "Souper Bowl" of giving month.

A great way to help us with our Love Does project for January. We need you to bring soup and laundry detergent to Piedmont church. We are partnering this month with frontline ministries such as Storehouse Ministries, Georgia Military Care, The Children's Haven, The Cobb Center for Young Adults, and KSU Cares. All these frontline ministries need soup or detergent. Detergent goes to The Cobb Center for Young Adults, Davis Direction Foundation, and The Children's Haven. Soup goes to Georgia Military Care, KSU Cares, and Storehouse Ministries. You can take the items to the Love Does tables in the Conference Room. or call Piedmont Church at 770-422-2566, for information on dropping off your donation.

CROY ENGINEERING DONATES SPORTS EQUIPMENT

As part of its Croy Cares initiative, Croy Engineering collected new soccer balls and basketballs to donate to Devereux Georgia in Kennesaw, on behalf of The Dave Krache Foundation. Croy Engineering is headquartered in Marietta, Georgia. Its Croy Cares program is a week-long initiative launched in 2022 by Vice President Sasha Ugi, designed to provide opportunities for all team members to engage in volunteer activities within their local communities. Croy employees are encouraged to engage in individual community service throughout the year as well. The Dave Krache Foundation was founded in 2012 to help kids play sports when their parents have fallen on tough financial times. The Foundation helps to pay registration fees for students in school and rec league sports throughout Metro Atlanta. “Each year, I’m inspired by our team’s unwavering commitment to giving back to the communities we serve,” said Scott McNally, Engineering Department Manager at Croy Engineering. “As Vice Chair of the Dave Krache Foundation, I was especially excited to see Devereux selected as the beneficiary of our 2025 Croy Cares Week on behalf of this Foundation. Watching our employees unite to support a local organization, particularly during this season of giving, reminds me what makes Croy such a special place to work. When it comes to serving others, our team truly knows no bounds.” The staff at Devereux Georgia was excited to accept the donation and said the balls will go to good use.

Kennesaw Mountain High School math teacher Stephanie Ruffner has been nominated for National Life Group's 2025-26 LifeChanger of the Year award. National Life Group's LifeChanger of the Year recognizes and rewards the very best K-12 educators and school district employees across the United States who are making a difference in the lives of students by exemplifying excellence, positive influence, and leadership.

Ruffner was nominated by her colleague, David Larsen, for her more than 15 years of extraordinary service to students and her transformative leadership in STEM (science, technology, engineering, and math) education. She was previously a math teacher and STEM Director at Cooper Middle School, where she spent seven years building and leading the Cooper STEM Academy, creating a culture that fosters curiosity, creativity, and confidence in problem-solving.

ACWORTH BUSINESS ASSOCIATION

By ABA PRESIDENT Alicia Todisco

Acworth is more than just a place to live—it is a community built on hard work and helping hands. My name is Alicia Todisco, owner of ACE Handyman Services, and I am proud to step into my new role as the President of the Acworth Business Association (ABA).

The ABA is a group of local business owners who care deeply about our town. Before I opened my own shop four years ago, this group welcomed me. They showed me that when local businesses succeed, the whole community wins.

I want to thank our outgoing leader, Kim Wigington. Under her leadership, the ABA worked closely with the City of Acworth and Kennesaw State University to offer free classes for small business owners.

She also spent the year supporting local charities that care for our neighbors in need. We are so grateful for her heart and her hard work.

This year, our theme is LEGACY.

Legacy is more than just a name on a building. It is about the "essence" we leave behind and how we treat our neighbors. We want to be intentional about how we serve you. Whether it is through sponsoring events like the Taste of Acworth or helping a neighbor find a trusted local professional, our goal is to make our town even better.

Running a small business is a lot like raising my two young boys—it's a lot of work, but it's worth it! By supporting each other, we build a stronger future. If you are a business professional, trades professional, sales professional, or business owner that would like to get more involved in the ABA, we would love to connect with you. Please visit us at www.acworthbusiness.org for information. We hope to connect with you. Together, let's build a legacy we can all be proud of.

THE BEST KITCHEN-THEMED GIFTS FOR BEGINNER COOKS

By chef Andrew gruel

Every holiday season, I get the same question: “What should I buy for someone who’s just starting to cook at home?” And every year, my advice stays the same: skip the gimmicks and focus on the foundational tools that actually help someone grow in the kitchen.

Before we dive in, a quick note: I’m not listing brand names because I’m not here to promote any particular product, and I’m not paid to endorse anything. My goal is simply to give you the categories of tools that genuinely help new cooks.

AND HERE’S AN INSIDER TIP:

Local restaurant supply stores (many open to the public) are some of the best places to get professional-grade tools at great prices. That’s where chefs shop — not influencer gift lists.

NOW LET’S GET INTO THE ESSENTIALS.

1. A Reliable 8-Inch Chef’s Knife

This is the foundational tool every cook needs. An 8-inch chef’s knife is the ideal size for beginners — versatile, balanced, and capable of handling nearly all prep tasks.

It doesn’t need to be expensive; it needs to feel sturdy and comfortable.

2. A Large, Heavy Wooden Cutting Board

(Safer and More Sanitary)

A big wooden cutting board gives stability and room to work, and wood naturally has antimicrobial properties, making it safer than many plastic boards.

Its weight prevents slipping, which is essential when someone is still learning proper knife control.

3. A Full Chef’s Apron

A high-quality apron with deep pockets and full coverage helps a new cook feel organized and confident. It’s practical, protective, and instantly upgrades their kitchen presence.

4. A Cast Iron or Carbon Steel Pan

Instead of a basic heavy-bottomed skillet, a cast iron or carbon steel pan is a far better tool for someone learning to cook.

Here’s why: They hold heat extremely well, making searing easier.; They develop a natural nonstick surface over time; They last for decades with minimal care; They help beginners learn key skills like heat control, browning, and seasoning a pan.

Cast iron is great for slow, steady heat. Carbon steel is lighter, quicker, and extremely versatile. Either one is a lifetime gift.

5. Heat-Proof Utensils That Make Cooking Easier

A simple set — tongs, wooden spoon, heat-proof spatula, and scraper — helps beginners navigate recipes without battling flimsy tools. Practical, durable, and essential.

6. A Baking Sheet + Wire Rack Combo This combo unlocks crisping, roasting, cooling, draining, and resting. It’s one of the most versatile and underrated setups any new cook can have.

7. A Simple Digital Thermometer This instantly boosts confidence by removing the guesswork behind doneness. A thermometer is one of the fastest ways to help beginners cook proteins correctly.

8. Prep Bowls and Storage Containers

Organization is half the battle. Prep bowls build the habit of mise en place, and good storage containers support leftovers and meal planning.

9. A Medium-Sized Dutch Oven or Heavy Pot

This one vessel teaches braising, simmering, searing, boiling, and slow cooking — all in one. It’s incredibly versatile and beginner-friendly.

10. A Good Peeler and a Microplane

A sharp peeler makes prep safe and fast. A microplane opens up a world of flavor: citrus zest, garlic paste, ginger, nutmeg, and delicate cheese shavings. These little tools create big “wow” moments for beginners learning to season properly.

11. A Beginner’s Culinary Textbook (Like The New Professional Chef) Instead of a trendy cookbook, give the gift of real culinary fundamentals.

A professional-style beginner’s textbook teaches knife skills, heat methods, safety, sauces, organization, and the science behind cooking.

12. A Monthly Meat Box from a Local Farmer

One of the best and most inspiring gifts for a new cook. A local farmer’s monthly meat box introduces high-quality proteins, variety, and seasonality. It encourages creativity and supports local agriculture. Plus, it’s just fun — every month feels like Christmas for a home cook.

The Bottom Line: Give Gifts That Build Skills, Not Clutter
Beginner cooks don’t need gadgets. They need confidence, good tools, and ingredients that inspire them.

And again — I’m not paid to promote any specific products or brands, which is why this list focuses on categories and fundamentals, not labels.
